

Only robust standard errors are produced

When using weight variables, model-based standard errors are not produced and hence only a final table of fixed effects with robust standard errors is printed to the output file.